

Contemporary Tourism:

An International Approach

Chris Cooper and C. Michael Hall

(G) Goodfellow Publishers Ltd

(G) Published by Goodfellow Publishers Limited,
Woodeaton, Oxford, OX3 9TJ
<http://www.goodfellowpublishers.com>

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data: a catalogue record for this title is available from the British Library.

Library of Congress Catalog Card Number: on file.

ISBN: 978-1-906884-16-0

Copyright © Chris Cooper and C. Michael Hall, 2013

All rights reserved. The text of this publication, or any part thereof, may not be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, storage in an information retrieval system, or otherwise, without prior permission of the publisher or under licence from the Copyright Licensing Agency Limited. Further details of such licences (for reprographic reproduction) may be obtained from the Copyright Licensing Agency Limited, of Saffron House, 6–10 Kirby Street, London EC1N 8TS.

All trademarks used herein are the property of their respective owners. The use of trademarks or brand names in this text does not imply any affiliation with or endorsement of this book by such owners.

Design and typesetting by P.K. McBride, www.macbride.org.uk

Cover design by Cylinder, www.cylindermedia.com

Contents

Section 1: Contemporary Tourism Systems

- | | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|----|
| 1 | Contemporary Tourism Systems | 1 |
| 2 | Contemporary Tourism Product Markets | 23 |
-

Section 2: The Contemporary Tourist

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 3 | Contemporary Tourists, Tourist Behaviour and Flows | 46 |
| 4 | Contemporary Tourism Marketing | 75 |
-

Section 3: The Contemporary Tourism Destination

- | | | |
|---|--|-----|
| 5 | Delivering the Contemporary Tourism Product: the Destination | 107 |
| 6 | Governing the Contemporary Tourism Product: the Role of the Public Sector and Tourism Policy | 132 |
| 7 | Consequences of Visitation at the Contemporary Destination | 158 |
| 8 | Planning and Managing the Contemporary Destination | 185 |
| 9 | Marketing and Branding the Contemporary Destination | 211 |
-

Section 4: The Contemporary Tourism Industry

- | | | |
|----|---|-----|
| 10 | The Scope of the Contemporary Tourism Sector | 241 |
| 11 | The Tourism Industry: Contemporary Issues | 260 |
| 12 | Supporting the Contemporary Tourism Product: Tourism Service Management | 290 |
-

Section 5: Tourism Futures

- | | | |
|----|---|-----|
| 13 | Tourism in the 21st Century: Contemporary Tourism in an Uncertain World | 321 |
| | Index | 359 |

List of figures

1.1: Locating the tourism experience and tourism product	2
1.2: The geographical tourism system	4
1.3: The tourism value chain: simplified international value system	5
1.4: Key elements of consumer psychology at different components of the tourism geographical system	8
1.5: The characteristics of tourism in relation to time, distance, boundaries and description of purpose of travel (after Hall 2003)	16
1.6: Understanding the nature of contemporary tourism	17
2.1: The tourism product market	25
2.2: The Tasmanian experience concept	30
2.3: A sociocognitive market system	34
2.4: An extended model of high-risk leisure consumption	37
2.5: The environment of product market interactions	40
3.1: Continuum of idealized attributes of mass and alternative tourism	61
3.2: Food tourism as special interest tourism	63
3.3: The construction of mobility biographies and life courses	67
4.1: The stage gate process model	95
4.2: The corporate social responsibility pyramid	98
5.1: Elements of place as locale: locating scapes	109
6.1: Elements of multilevel governance institutions and relations affecting tourism	139
6.2: Frameworks of governance	150
7.1: Interrelationships between traditional categorization of tourism's impacts	160
7.2: Change matrix of consequences of tourism	161
7.3: Understanding the consequences of tourism	172
7.4: The relational nature of tourism impacts	175
10.1: Categories of suppliers to tourists in the PITT system	247
12.1: Contributing factors to the transformation of the service economy	293
12.2: Factors that influence tourist satisfaction	303
12.3: The service-profit chain	307
12.4: Employee-customer linkage model.	308
13.1: Trends and influences affecting contemporary tourism	323
13.2: A typology of transitions	343
13.3: Sustainable consumption	348

List of tables

1.1: Main elements of tourism production at different components of the tourism geographical system	6
2.1: The changing nature of market stories with product maturity	36
3.1: Scales of analysis of tourism	47
3.2: International tourism arrivals and forecasts 1950-2030 (millions)	48
3.3: Average annual growth in international tourism arrivals and forecasts 1980-2030	49
3.4: International tourist arrivals by region per 100 population 1995-2030	49
3.5: Generation of outbound tourism by region per 100 population 1980-2030	50
3.6: Global international and domestic tourist arrivals 2005-2030	51
4.1: Translating the marketing orientation into action	77
4.2: Degrees of product 'newness'	96
4.3: A framework for service redesign	97
4.4: Approaches to corporate social responsibility	98
6.1: Policy matrix: Roles of government in tourism and policy types	149
6.2: Frameworks of governance and their characteristics. consumers and producers	151
7.1: Perceived impacts of tourism on destinations identified in tourism literature	163
7.2: FIFA requirements for government guarantees and infrastructure technical requirements for a World Cup (abridged)	165
7.3: Reasons for being in favour of or against World Cup bid	167
8.1: Timelines for traditions of tourism planning	192
8.2: Protected areas managed by Metsähallitus	198
8.3: Metsähallitus Principles for Sustainable Nature Tourism	200
8.4: Low, middle and high road regional competitiveness strategies	204
9.1: Definitions of the process and the outcome of destination marketing	213
9.2: Destination image and marketing actions	220
9.3: Jain's matrix of strategic action	221
9.4: The eMICA model	227
10.1: Mapping tourism enterprises onto various SIC and country approaches	249
11.1: Approaches to defining small tourism firms	277
11.2: Organisational structures and entrepreneurial characteristics	278
12.1: Comparison of the product-centric and customer-centric approaches	296
13.1: Tourism's contribution to global environmental change	327

13.2: Operator actions and needs with respect to climate change events on the Great Barrier Reef	330
13.3: Key issues associated with oil supply	341
13.4: Foresight scenarios	346
13.5: Most promising travel and tourism emissions mitigation measures identified by the WEF	349

List of case studies

1.1: Using a tourism systems approach to understand the environmental impact of tourism	6
2.1: Tourism Tasmania's 'experience product' strategy	28
2.2: Market-shaping behaviour in adventure tourism product markets: skydiving	36
3.1: Icelandic tourism and crisis	52
4.1: Consumer behaviour and generation Y	82
4.2: The tour operators' initiative for sustainable development	99
5.1: SoHo, urban redevelopment and place branding	113
5.2: Hurricane Katrina and New Orleans tourism	121
6.1: Øresund: 'One Destination, Two Countries'	136
6.2: World Heritage and issues of multilevel governance	141
7.1: Economic impact of the Football World Cup	165
7.2: The climate impact of international travel by Swedish residents	173
7.3: Tourism and the Sistine Chapel	177
8.1: Planning for tourism in Finland's national parks	197
9.1: Place-making: The Blackstone Valley Tourism Council	214
9.2: Marketing Australian cattle station destinations	230
10.1: Mapping the contemporary tourism industry onto the SIC system	249
10.2: The way forward for TSAs	252
11.1: Tourism destination and business networks in Australia	272
12.1: Customer-centric firms	298
12.2: Intercontinental Hotels Group – an evolution to a strategic approach to HRM	310
13.1: Tourism entrepreneur attitudes to climate change	334
13.2: Transition management and tourism in Norway	342

Acknowledgements

We have a number of people to thank for their witting – or unwitting – help in our ideas and writing for this book. As commissioning editor, Sally North at Goodfellow Publishers and previously at Elsevier Butterworth Heinemann has, as always, been a constant source of encouragement, and when necessary, gentle pressure. Both Sally and Tim Goodfellow have been enthusiastic about a new edition of the book and have greatly assisted us in completing it without undue stress. We would also like to thank David Solnet again for undertaking the services chapter in the first edition of this book and which has served as the base for the current edition. Chris would also like to say a big thank you for Amy Cooper's Internet search skills and robust editing of his chapters.

Michael would like to pay particular thanks to the support of University of Canterbury administrative staff Donna Heslop-Williams and Irene Edgar and especially Angela Zhang for managing the accounts and Irene Joseph for managing Michael. The support of the ever-capable Paul Ballantine for encouraging research and scholarship is also gratefully acknowledged. In addition, Michael would also like to note the support of the various other institutions with which he is engaged for the support they provide for research, travel, accommodation and the time to work on other projects such as this text. These include Lund and Linneaus Universities in Sweden; the Universities of Oulu and Eastern Finland in, quite obviously, Finland; and the Frieberg Institute of Advanced Studies in Germany.

Although Michael did not need the assistance of the Cooper household he would still like to thank them for their continued assistance of Chris. In addition he would like to thank Tim Baird, Tim Coles, David Duval, Stefan Gössling, Johan Hultman, Michael James, John Jenkins, Alan Lew, Dieter Müller, Stephen Page, Jarkko Saarinen, Daniel Scott, and Allan Williams, as well as colleagues and students in marketing at the University of Canterbury's Department of Management and Lund University's Department of Service Management, who have all contributed in various ways to help develop some of the ideas within. Beirut, Fiona Apple, Nick Cave, Bruce Cockburn, First Aid Kit, and Indigo Girls also helped ensure that the book was completed, while Chris Difford, Glen Tilbrook and David Sylvian also helped with the indexing. Finally, he would like to especially thank Jody, Cooper and JC for the morning coffees while completing the book.

